State Tax Agency Offers New Business Workshops

First Tuscaloosa Area Workshop Jan. 26

Montgomery—The Alabama Department of Revenue opens 2006 with the start of a new educational program designed for new small business owners, announced State Revenue Commissioner Tom Surtees.

Beginning in January, the department will host New Business Workshops in various locations across the state to help new business owners understand their Alabama tax reporting and payment responsibilities.

The workshops are free and are presented by ADOR auditors and Taxpayer Advocate representatives.

Workshop topics cover a variety of state tax information ranging from employer withholding taxes to state and local sales tax reporting requirements.

January workshop locations include: Andalusia, Birmingham, Eufaula, Gadsden, Huntsville, Mobile, Montgomery, Muscle Shoals, Selma, Troy, and Tuscaloosa.

The first Tuscaloosa area workshop is scheduled at 3 p.m. and again at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 26, 2006, at McFarland Mall located at 900 Skyland Blvd., E., Tuscaloosa. The workshop will be held in the vacant store next to AJ's near Dillard's.

For more information concerning the Tuscaloosa area New Business Workshops, visit the department's Web site at www.revenue.alabama.gov or call (205) 759-2571.
